

CLOUTMAG®

Roki, A Serious Mess

Roki recently fell off the stage during the festive season, what picture is he shoeing to the youth?

Happy Again

Winky D's Happy Again visuals in for the global market.

7 0362 5827 6409

NOV-JAN 2022
ISSUE 12

CLOUTMAG

P03 LETTER FROM THE EDITOR
P05 DRUNK ROKI FALLS ON STAGE
P07 WINKY D IN HAPPY AGAIN VIDEO
P11 CELEB OF THE MONTH
P15 BENNIE LONG ARM FOR THE LAW
P17 BABES WODUMO GOT SOME ISSUES
P19 TAKURA ONCE HAD SUICIDAL THOUGHTS
P21 DRAKE MIGHT BE IN TROUBLE
P23 6 THINGS YOU SHOULD KEEP A SECRET
P26 POEM: APPRECIATE THICK THIGHS
P28 LET'S GET COOKING
P30 MODEL OF THE MONTH

COVER...

CLOUTMAG

//LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

/DEAR READER

We apologise for the delay in this issue, there has been some things which as an organisation were solving. We are now back in full sweep, better than before with a new inside look that we hope you will enjoy.

2022 is a year of executing opportunities and we are going to be there for you always, with new and better services. Currently we are looking for those who will be interested in the following posts:

- Blogger/Writer/Journalist/Poet
- Models
- Musicians
- Fashion Designers

We will update you under this section if we need more, if interested call, whatsapp or email us, with the information at the back of the magazine. As your best source of entertainment, we leave you to enjoy our issue. Thanks for your loyalty...

/YOURS SINCERELY

CloutBase

//DRUNK ROKI FALLS ON STAGE

Fans were outraged when Rockford Josphat, a high-riding Zimbabwean musician known as Roki, appeared on stage visibly drunk and fell.

After that, he was unable to complete his performance at the Odyssey Hotel in Kadoma.

Enzo Ishall was followed by Roki's performance. The Patati Patata hitmaker is said to have entered the stage visibly inebriated and performed one song whose lyrics he struggled to recite before collapsing and being removed from the platform.

Delight, a disappointed fan, expressed his displeasure with Roki's actions. He stated, "

It was a waste of time and money to see the show. Promoters, fans, and venue owners should all be taken seriously by these artists. Roki only managed to finish one song before collapsing. Everyone could see he was inebriated. He was then led to the edge of the swimming pool, where he laid down while people photographed him and with him.

The event drew a small crowd, and after Roki's stunt, people began to leave the venue.

That's a slap in the face of the fans. He has been doing well, but it appears that old habits are hard to break. He's returned to the scandalous lifestyle that nearly ended his career.

After a long vacation that required him to farm at his Seke home, Roki signed with Passion Java Records and released the album Colours, which includes songs such as the smash Patati Patata, Uchandifunga, Zviriko, Chidzoka remix, and others.

With Patati Patata, which features famous Kofie Olomide and Ray Vanny, Roki created history by being the first Zimbabwean artist to reach a million views in under 24 hours.

Critics, on the other hand, have accused his record label, Passion Java Records, of falsifying figures.

In other news, Winky D sets a new record as Passion Java "buys views for Roki." Winky D's much-anticipated December project, Happy Again, and Roki's own 'Mafuta' were both released on Friday, making it a very momentous day in the entertainment world.

It's worth noting that when Roki publishes a song, he rarely makes it to the top of the trending list.

Meanwhile, Winky D's 'Happy Again' surpassed the Zimbabwean daily YouTube views record with 430 000 in 24 hours, nearly double the previous record of 281 000 established by Jah Prayzah's Mukwasha.

Hopewell Chin'ono, an outspoken journalist, mocked Java on social media for trying too hard to prove he could be better than Winky D.

Hopewell shared a screenshot of Roki's song on YouTube as an advertisement.

"Things have gotten so terrible for the Fake Prophet Passion Java that he's now purchasing views for Roki's video using YouTube Adverts," he said. "The organic way has been a colossal failure!" He'd published the song on the same day as Winky's Happy Again! "THE CHALLENGE HAS BEEN COMPLETED!"

Java responded to Hopewell with a one-line insult that he has been using on him for quite some time.

"Hopeless Chimkonyo uri 113010 siya Roki na Winky uko..." he remarked.

Roki and Java stirred controversy in July after Roki's song Zvazviri surpassed one million views in four days, a record for a Zimbabwean.

The duo denied ever buying views, claiming that all of their views were earned naturally.

Java is suspected of being so enamored with Winky D that he has stolen his nickname and now refers to himself as "the Gafa."

//WINKY D IN THE VIDEO FOR HAPPY AGAIN

Simple-minded people would try to make us feel guilty by labeling us as poisonous or cancel culture purveyors. Cancel culture is the practice of removing support for prominent people and businesses after they have done or said something objectionable.

The uninitiated would have you believe it's all about music. "It's good for music," they remark. Everyone should have the freedom to do anything they want."

I have a good laugh. I end myself sobbing from laughing because I am startled and appalled at how simple-minded we can be at times.

Winky D, the late great Soul Jah Love's Zim-Dancehall superstar, had since indicated that he was dropping his project, and his followers were merely waiting for it.

Then one Panganai, who believes he is brighter and wiser than everyone, decides that today is also an excellent day to surprise his artist Roki with a video.

When was the last time you heard about a surprise? Anyway, I'm getting off track.

On a regular day, Panganai's behaviour would not have troubled many people. But then it's no longer simply about music, is it?

What does Panganai stand for? What does he represent? What exactly is his plan? Who is his master, exactly?

Those who scream, "Cancel culture!" are correct. They are merely Zanu PF followers, enablers, supporters, or beneficiaries; they are either uneducated or have the same agenda as Panganai.

Panganai Java has been yearning to battle Winky D, which is why he proudly refers to himself as "Gaffa."

Who isn't aware that Panganai is a Zanu PF candidate? By the way, there's nothing wrong with that, lest you start stoning me. It is his right under the law.

On the other hand, we have Winky D, who is seen by the ruling party as a "opposition" musician for whatever reason.

It's arguable how they arrived at that conclusion, and it's not the point of this discussion.

That is the problem. It became political when Panganai announced a Roki video on the same day Winky D stated he was dropping something. Zanu PF turned against the people.

It's not by chance. The decision to broadcast Roki's "surprise" video was premeditated, and those attempting to silence us must understand that we will respond politically as well, and we will protect Winky D's song at all costs!

Winky D is a devotee of the impoverished people, while Panganai supports and does the bidding for a political party that has made life intolerable for ordinary people in our country (yet another story we don't need to delve into today).

That's all there is to it. If you don't understand, I'm not sure how else we can assist you.

It's no longer about whether Winky D's song/album/movie, or whatever else he's releasing today at 10 a.m., is good or horrible, a hit or not.

No, it has now become a rallying point for ordinary people to stand up against charlatans and culture parasites like Panganai.

We don't have a problem with Roki; we do, however, have a problem with Panganai and Zanu PF!

Roki, on the other hand, has made his bed and must lie in it.

Everything else is irrelevant now since we are blue ticking everything. Please don't die today since we'll blue tick that as well and return when we're #HappyAgain.

Meanwhile, Dangarembga claims that Winky D's obsession with white girls is becoming a problem.

Tsitsi Dangarembga, a well-known playwright and film director, has ignited debate on social media after making comments about Zimbabwean dancehall singer Winky D's new song "Happy Again."

The award-winning author of "Nervous Conditions," in a tweet, expressed her admiration for Winky D's music and personality, but noted that his obsession with white chicks in his videos was becoming an issue. She expressed herself as follows:

I just finished listening to Winky D's "Happy Again." While I admire Winky D's music and personality, I believe his obsession with white girls is getting troublesome.

Winky D's latest video "Happy Again," which depicts a white woman, and "MuGarden," on which he cooperated with Gemma Griffiths, were also mentioned by Dangarembga.

A number of Twitter users reacted to Dangarembga's message, the bulk of whom were critical of the author's views.

Ms Amanda stated that only two videos (Happy Again and MuGarden) do not constitute an obsession. She expressed herself as follows:

I'll start with I love your work because I do, but. The storyline is about a poor black farm boy being loved against all odds by a white aristocrat.

Two videos don't really count as a fixation. Imagine if we said you never write Shona, and you have no work in Shona does it become problematic?

... I would have chosen to look at it as breaking a barrier here. Not the pinnacle of desirability but rather a voice for interracial relationships, which, not to get personal, but you should lend your voice to as I'm certain the challenges are many.

While the two videos do not have a connection, Dangarembga believes Happy Again's storyline is problematic. She stated, "

To me, the entire plot is extremely problematic. Making the white woman the unattainable pinnacle of attractiveness.

I agree that the two videos do not form a fixation, but they are close together and appear to be gaining the greatest traction on my timeline

"You're entitled to your view as you are madam," Brooxy added, "but I believe this was just an unfair character judgment." Your profiling is completely unfounded; after all, it's only one video. Happy Again is a great song with an outstanding visual by @winkyonline, who is a brilliant artist."

DID YOU KNOW?

1. Winky D was born Wallace Chirumiko in Kambuzuma in 1983.
2. He was first known as Wicked DeeJay before he shortened it to Winky D.
3. Winky D doesn't model anyone, his inspiration comes from the challenges poor people face every day.
4. He is one of the male circumcision ambassadors in Zimbabwe and collaborated with Oliver Mtukudzi on a song called "if you know you're a champion get circumcised" aimed at raising awareness to the cause.
5. His first performance outside Zimbabwe was in 2011 in South Africa at the Monash Beer Fest Carnival in Johannesburg.
6. He's toured UK, South Africa, Australia and North America.
7. He once opened for Sniper Storm and Mavado and denied getting off the stage until Sniper Storm came and grabbed the mic from him.
8. Winky D has over six awards to his name including a NAMA, honorary Dancehall award and many dancehall awards.
9. In 2014 he was featured in the Southern African Music Awards (SAMA).
10. Winky D is said to have many rivals in his genre including Seh Calaz and Jah Prayzah.

CELEB

OF

THE

MONTH

KG Phenomenal

CLOUTMA

//MEET KG PHENOMENAL

Stage Name : KG Phenomenal

Real Name : Kugonakwashe Taanarwo

Occupation : Student at University of Zimbabwe

Hobby(ies) : Music

Who is KG?

KG Phenomenal is a 20 year old independent hip hop artist. The government name is Kugonakwashe Taanarwo, born on 22 October 2001 in Harare. KG is blessed with one sister who's based in the US. The Moyo family is supportive in this young boy's dreams and he says his mother's prayers keeps him going.

When did you start to sing?

Initially, I started to write songs at the age of 8 and I set my foot in the booth in 2018 when I was in form 4.

Why Music?

Before any other reason, I do music because I love music. I am music lol. I believe it's a calling because each time I write a song I find myself writing messages that affect a lot of lives. The reality keeps begging me to voice over.

How did you family react when they heard you doing music?

It wasn't easy for them to accept this and I understand because they feared that one day I would drop out of school but I managed to balance between the two. They are now very supportive and I appreciate their prayers.

Which was your best project?

It's hard for me to say but I would say Mwana-komana because I saw a huge grow in subscribers on YouTube however the fans still embrace all the other songs.

Who do you give credit to you being where you are in the music industry?

I give credit to my family, my friends and above all, God is doing the most for me.

If you are to collaborate with any artist of your choice, who will it be and why?

Would have loved to say Holy Ten but I figured out that when someone feels how you can be their competition they will shun you off immediately like I've seen. I would love to sing with anyone off the Hip Hop Industry and to give an example, Winky D

Where do you see yourself in 10 years time?

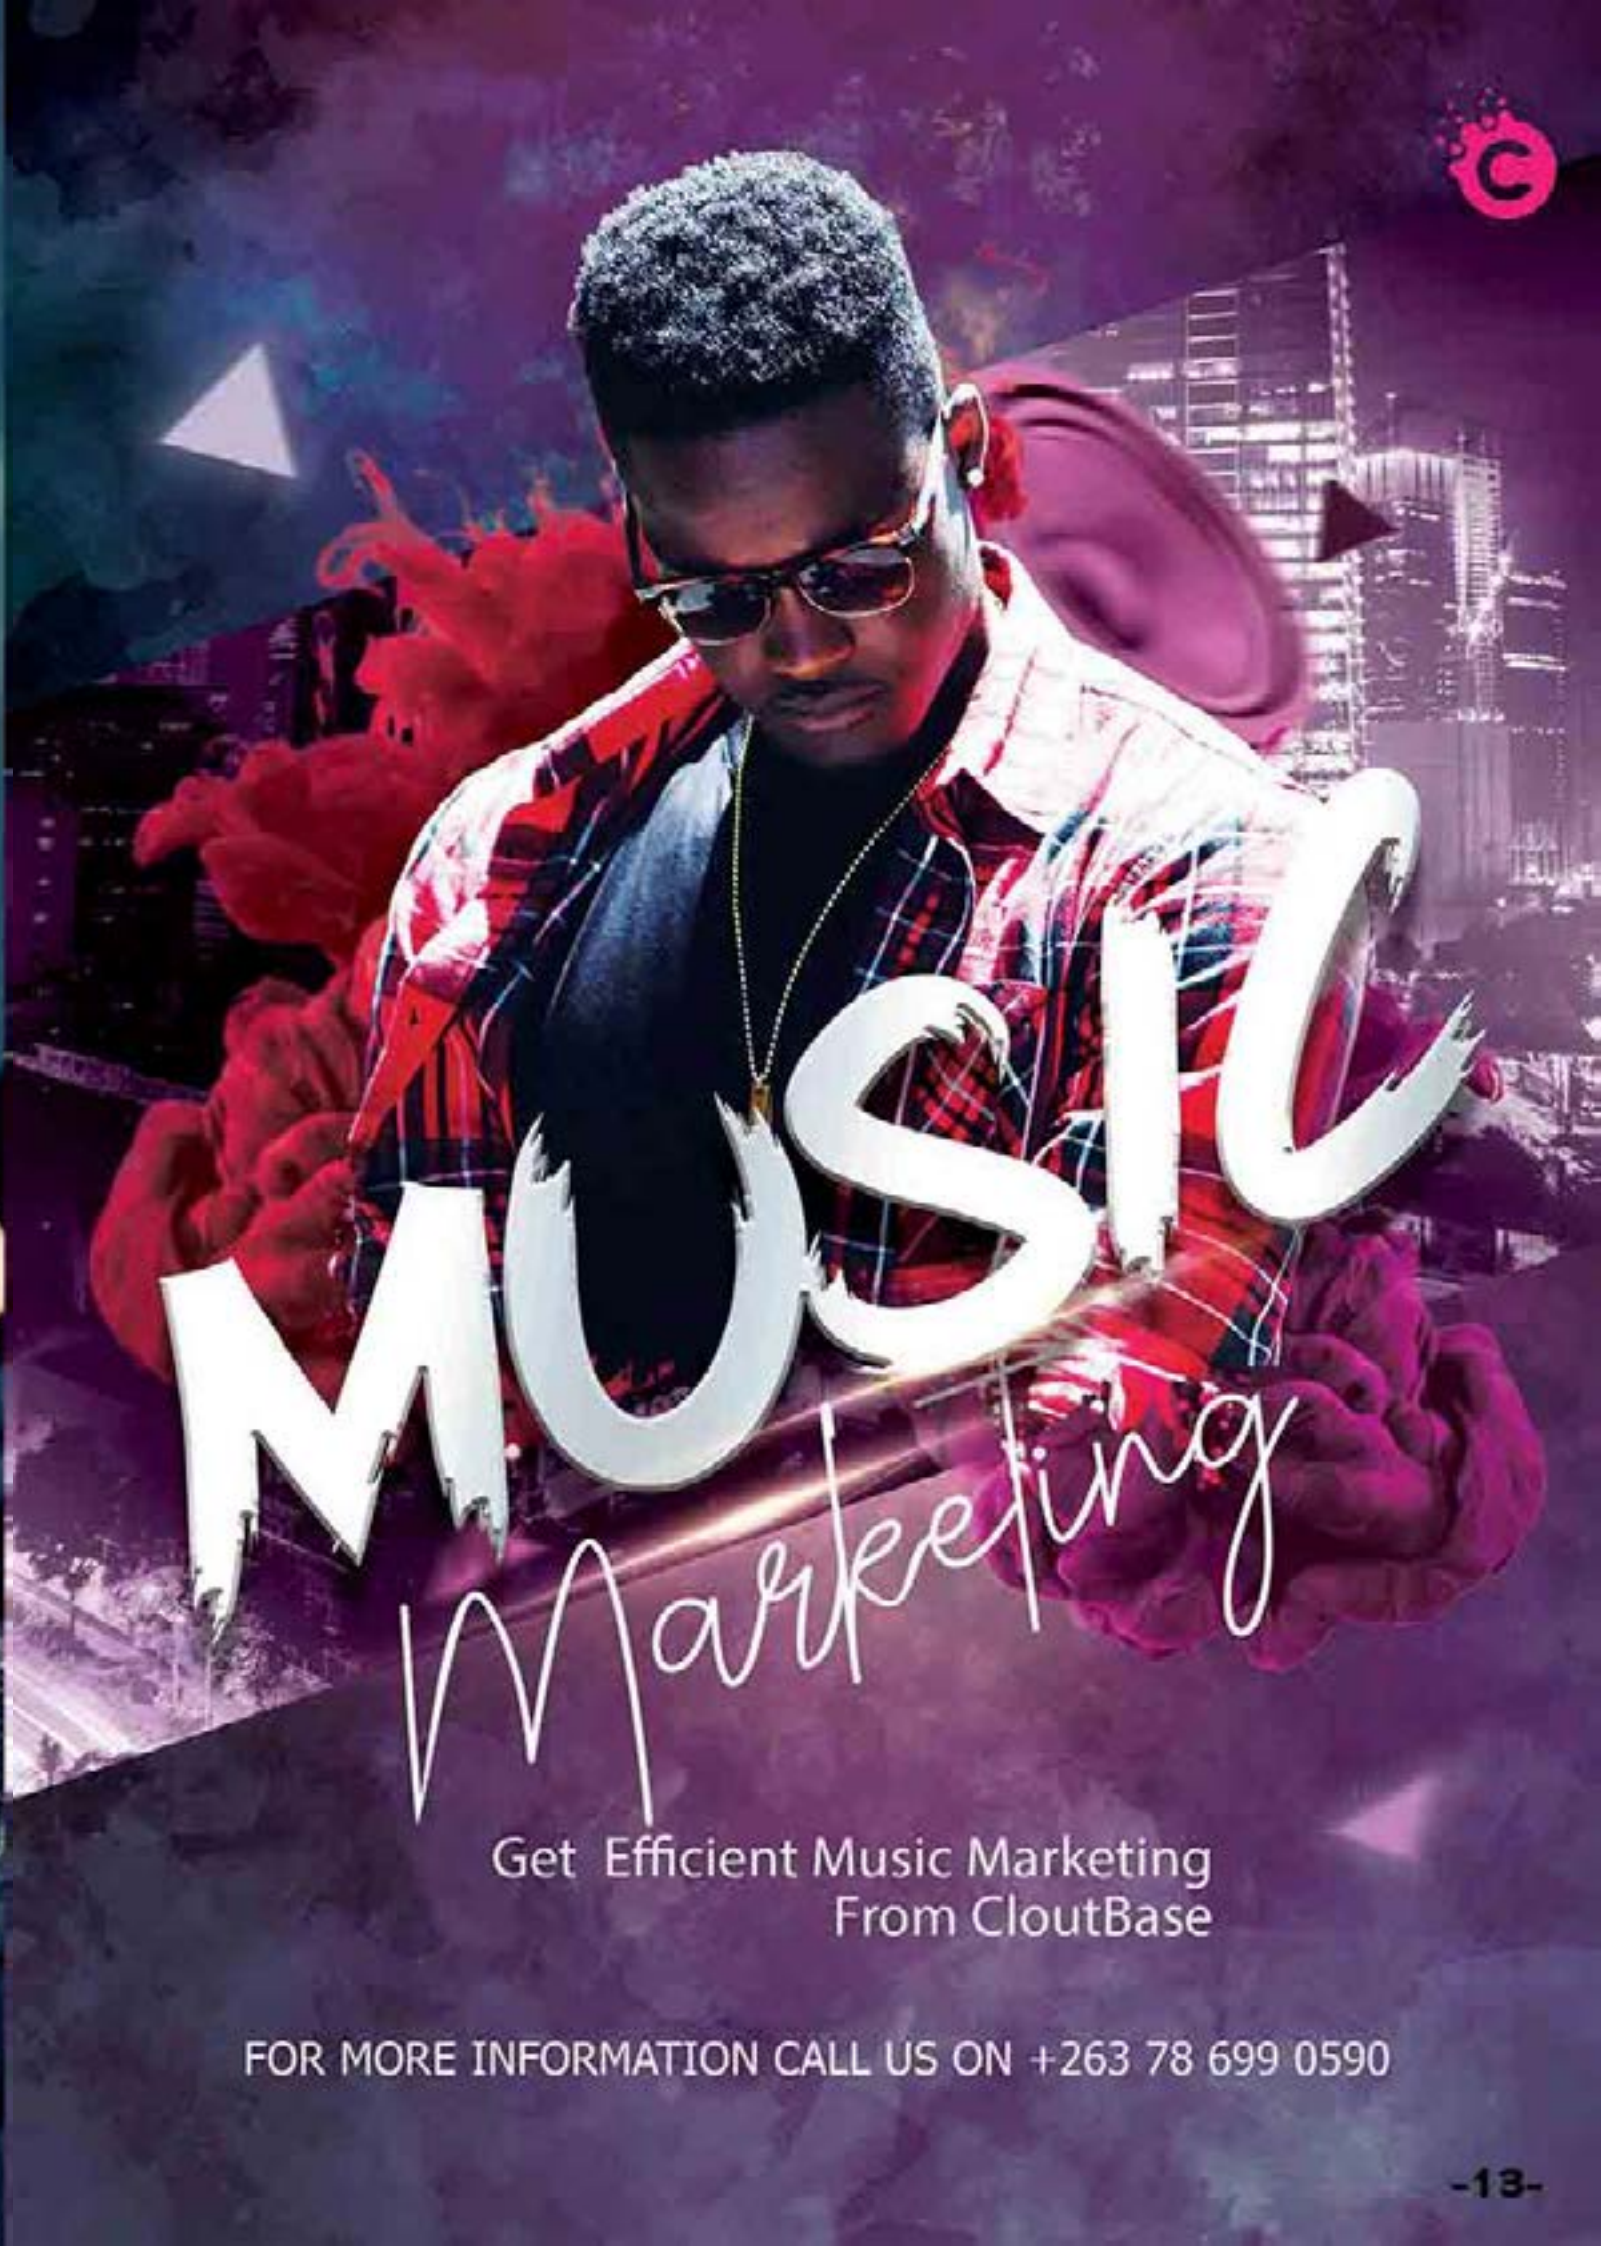

I see myself as a big name, a brand and a celebrated artist. I do not worry about now for I know the message will speak for itself.

KG Phenomenal

CLOUTMAJ

MUSIC

Marketing

Get Efficient Music Marketing
From CloutBase

FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL US ON +263 78 699 0590

//BEENIE THE LONG ARM OF THE LAW IS FELT BY THE MAN.

GRAMMY-WINNING For violating the Disaster Risk Management Act, deejay Beenie Man finds himself on the wrong side of the law (DRMA). On May 17, he was fined $150,000 and sentenced to three months in prison in the St Elizabeth Parish Court.

Roderick Gordon, the entertainer's lawyer, expressed satisfaction with the verdict.

"We didn't want to be accused of breaking the law or squandering the court's and state's resources." "We had a strong case, but in the end, we chose the responsible path," Gordon explained.

"He wanted to show respect for the law and that he is not above the law as a veteran in the profession and someone who is a strong influencer in the country and the global community... I'm happy, and the fine imposed is reasonable... It could have been a lot more... He's relieved that he can resume his normal routine," he continued.

1. Beenie Man plays many instruments.

More than just a singjay/ songwriter, Beenie Man made it clear to Teach Dem that he's actually a skilled musician. "Me can tell di musician which key, an which note, an which chord, which singer fi tek me can do dat. This is what I do, cause is music me do", said Beenie. Insisting his focus has always been voicing tracks, he added, "Me nuh tek musician job. Because me can play drum, me ah go play drum? No. Me can play drum, play guitar, play keyboard."

2. He and reggae/dancehall heavyweight Junior Reid have been at odds since 1988.

The two had a falling out during a show over what Beenie calls a "silly thing" which escalated due to Reid's "bag ah badness an ray ray". When asked if they would ever be able to see eye to eye, Beenie said he still respected him as an elder but reconciling was unlikely as Reid had disrespected him too many times over the years. "Man try disrespect me all inna dance enuh bredrin, park all infront ah me, kick all mi van door an bend up mi van door. Me an him will never be dat friend."

3. He once performed a poem for then Prime Minister Michael Manley.

In 1980, the 7-year-old Beenie Man was on his way to Maverley Primary School to perform a poem at the principal's request. He claims he saw Michael Manley jogging through the community and chased him all the way to Molyneux road for his chance to impress the leader. According to Beenie, "him read di poem, seh is a great poem, yow yuh deven know wah happen to me, a skip me skip go back a school. Principal tek di poem an seh di same ting weh him seh, 'great poem', an me ah seh yeh, mi ah di man."

4. Despite their differences, Yellowman is one of his biggest influences.

Teach Dem touched on the brooding controversy between the rival royals, but Beenie actually went on to name Yellowman first when asked about his earliest influences. Also among the prestigious list were Michigan & Smiley, Ninjaman, Don Carlos and Jimmy Cliff who his uncle played percussion for.

Michael Jackson and Kenny Rogers also made the cut, but Beenie cites his greatest inspiration as spitfire 80's sensation General Trees. "Me did waah fi be as great as Ninjaman on stage, and as big as Shabba worldwide," Beenie said.

5. What's left for Beenie Man to achieve?

After 43 successful years, a Grammy award, several smash hits and a stellar Verzuz appearance under his belt, there's very little the '10 year old boy wonder' hasn't grown up to accomplish. So what's next for the Girls Dem Sugar? "Do it again" is what he says, "dats all yuh haffi do. If yuh doh waah do it again, resign. And I'm not resigning."

//MAKHADZI VS BABES WODUMO

In what has been billed as yet another ill-advised publicity stunt, musician Babes Wodumo went live on Instagram to insult another person, fellow musician Makhadzi.

She set her sights on the star just weeks after calling her mother-in-law all sorts of names.

Screen recordings of the live stream, which have since been shared on Twitter, TikTok, and Instagram show Babes Wodumo sitting in what looks like a recording studio.

It is unclear what upset her, but in certain clips, she can be heard accusing Makhadzi of putting the moves on her husband, Mandla "Mampintsha" Maphumulo.

Babes Wodumo goes on the claim that Makhadzi's ex-boyfriend, Jerusalema hitmaker Master KG had once hit on her, and added that she could have slept with him if she wanted to, but she just did not want to.

"I will find you and I will beat you," said Babes Wodumo while speaking in Isizulu and slurring her words.

ruly respect her because she slept with her man.

"How can you sleep with your friend's man?" asks Babes Wodumo before repeatedly threatening to beat the person she's talking about.

"How can you go for Mampintsha? As fat as he is? Stupid girl with no future. Call the police! I will beat you and you will regret it."

She continues her rant and claims that she heard that Master KG had left the unnamed person she was talking about (whom fans have assumed is Makhadzi).

Babes then says he asked her out and that she refused his advances, even though she could have had him if she wanted to.

She then concludes the clip by calling the person she is talking about "a bh with no future."

Makhadzi seems to have caught wind of what was said about her and addressed it in a few tweets.

WHAT'S NEW?

AFTER THE COCAINE DRAMA, MAMPINTSHA SHOWS HIS 'WIFE' BABES WODUMO SOME LOVE Despite all of the turmoil and criticism that has surrounded their relationship in the past, Babes Wodumo and Mampintsha are still going strong.

The couple was once involved in a notorious domestic violence episode, which prompted social media and fans to characterize their relationship as poisonous.

People keep avoiding the couple for whatever reason, and they always end themselves in each other's arms.

Mampintsha recently shared some love for his lady love, Babes Wodumo, on social media.

The singer captioned a photo of Babes Wodumo with her distinctive dyed hair in a shade of pink, 'My Wife,' and added loving emojis.

Followers are frequently inquiring if they are married or not, and the duo enjoys indulging fans and keeping them guessing.

Meanwhile, Babes Wodumo is currently involved in a legal dispute with Tha Simelane, a media personality.

The Gqom queen is suing Tha Simelane for defamation of character after Tha Simelane stated in a live interview that Babes had used cocaine while others were watching.

Through their lawyer Ayanda Mngadi of Ayanda, Babes Wodumo and her colleagues have filed a defamation of character action.

Although Tha Simelane claimed that Babes had forgiven him for making such a statement, it appears that the situation is still ongoing.

"Yes, I can affirm that our customer has given us orders to act. It's a civil defamation lawsuit."

//PROMINENT RAPPER TAKURA OPENS UP ABOUT HAVING SUICIDAL THOUGHTS

More local celebrities are opening up about their mental health struggles with Zim dance hall chanter Enzo Ishall being the most talked about after publicly admitting to suffering from depression.

This time around, chart topping Zim Hip Hop rapper Takura has opened up about having suicidal thoughts and being misunderstood.

Takura who has always kept his personal life private, decided to give his followers a glimpse into his inner life and what he is struggling with.

He posted on his twitter account yesterday saying, "suicide has really been on my mind lately... It's not easy feeling like everyone you love hates you because you're worst person in the world ... misunderstood."

Takura is one artist who has managed to keep his private life away from the media and has always let his music do the talking.

Mental health issues have become a topic of concern globally and most celebrities have started opening up about their struggles.

Earlier in September Enzo, also opened up about going through some personal stuff after announcing he was quitting music.

In one of his statements speaking about how he had lost his inner peace he said, "I gave them Enzo Ishall but Kudzanai was suffering." Nehanda Radio

MR OKAY

Born: Takura Bernard Shonhai

Occupation: Musician

Takura is a hip-hop artist from Zimbabwe who has won numerous awards. He grew raised in the Bulawayo suburb of Kingsdale.

Takura and his best friend Donald Mapholisa created the band Soul Afrika In Gweru in late 2013. When Mapholisa married, he left the group.

Takura relocated to Harare, where he was joined by Adrian Tate, Cynthia Mare's guitarist.

Takura became a household name after disbanding Soul Afrika to pursue solo projects and releasing two singles, "Zino Irema" and "MaObama."

In 2016, he released the Stripped EP, which included songs like "Mungandidi," "Mari Hairambwe," and "Ndoda Kutaura Newe."

On Friday, September 23, 2016, he kicked off a national and international tour with a performance at Gweru's Club Eclipse, followed by a performance at Bulawayo's Horizon Night Club the next night. He performed in Mutare before heading to Cyprus for his first gig on October 7, 2016.

On his return, he went to Masvingo on October 14 before heading to Harare on October 22 for the grand finale. One Entertainment was in charge of the tour.

//DRAKE MAY BE IN LEGAL TROUBLE OVER SOME HOT SAUCE

According to a gossip account called Too Much Hot Tea, the rapper hooked up with an unnamed Instagram model a few weeks ago. After attending a party together, the woman alleged they went to his hotel and smoked weed before having sex with condom, which Drake ended up disposing of in the bathroom.

But the woman apparently had ulterior motives, specifically to impregnate herself. As such, she claimed to have fished the used condom out of the trash and put the contents into her vagina — except she said it felt like "pouring hot lava into her pussy."

She then went on to allege that after hearing her screams, Drake came to the bathroom and told her he'd poured a packet of hot sauce into the condom in a bizarre attempt to kill the sperm. And now, the woman is trying to sue.

However, Drake has seemingly responded to the rumor in a new Instagram post captioned, "You can have your 15 minutes of fame...I'll take the other 23 hours and 45 mins." Ouch all around.

See Too Much Tea's original post and Drake's apparent response below.

//SIX THINGS YOU SHOULD KEEP A SECRET

1. Resentments from the past

We all have negative anecdotes about people we don't like to share from our own lives. (Remember those classmates or former partners with whom you harbored animosity years ago – or perhaps still do? Without a doubt, the same is true here.) In any instance, it's advisable to let go of these feelings and examine them as little as possible. This is as much for you as it is for other people, because pessimism is crippling. To both feel and pay attention to. People prefer to converse with positive conversation partners, those who have interesting stories to share, rather than those who are preoccupied with others about whom they have no idea. Get rid of anything that's weighing you down. When you try to focus on the present, you'll notice that an increasing number of people are eager to speak with you.

2. Personal Property

Obviously, there are some things in life that are far more important than their cost. In any case, we can't help but feel compelled to brag about our new car or the low-cost phone we just bought. Regardless of how much Parks and Recreation may inform you in other ways, your partners would prefer not to be aware of how you've been treating yourself. It can make you appear arrogant and preoccupied on the monetary value of things rather than their extraordinary significance. Unobtrusiveness is a fantastic feature. You should try to include it in all of your discussions.

3. The Future's Objectives

You may think this is impossible, but there is research behind the fact that if you don't tell anyone about your long-term goals, you'll be much more likely to achieve them. When you tell others about your future ambitions, you almost feel as if the satisfaction of achieving your goal has been taken away from you. As a result, you don't work as hard to achieve it. Regardless, if you keep quiet about your goals, you'll have a much better chance of achieving them. Furthermore, once you've done so, you're free to educate the rest of the world about it.

4. Your Earnings

Only the people who work in your bank should be allowed to know the specifics of your income. Money is never a good subject to discuss in public because no one can truly know what someone's financial situation is like. It may appear as if you're bragging about nothing in particular. Money — and information about accounts — can be used to make links inexorably. People start looking at you differently when your financial situation becomes public knowledge, and you have no way of stopping it. Keep the specifics of your pay to your bank proclamations to avoid this type of off-kilter situation.

5. Magnificent Deeds

You may have heard that good deeds always attract good karma. That is true, and you should never be discouraged from succeeding; nevertheless, once you start bragging about it, it takes on a whole other meaning. When you brag about something fantastic you've accomplished, you're making everything about yourself, thereby undercutting the decency you've already established. For a variety of reasons, a large percentage of the world's top humanitarians remain unknown. When you do anything altruistic, your focus should be on the people or the cause you're helping, not on yourself.

6. Family Issues

Whether you're dealing with distant relatives or close relatives, keep the difficulties under wraps. Make an effort not to abuse people's confidence. You've been told about the riddles since you're in close proximity to these people, but they won't let you tell everyone in your group of friends. They put their faith in you, and betraying that confidence is the worst thing you could possibly do. Be aware of what others have access to. As a result, you may expect them to treat you the same way.

LET'S SAY NO!

I AM WISE

I AM BEAUTIFUL

make a stand

say no to GBV

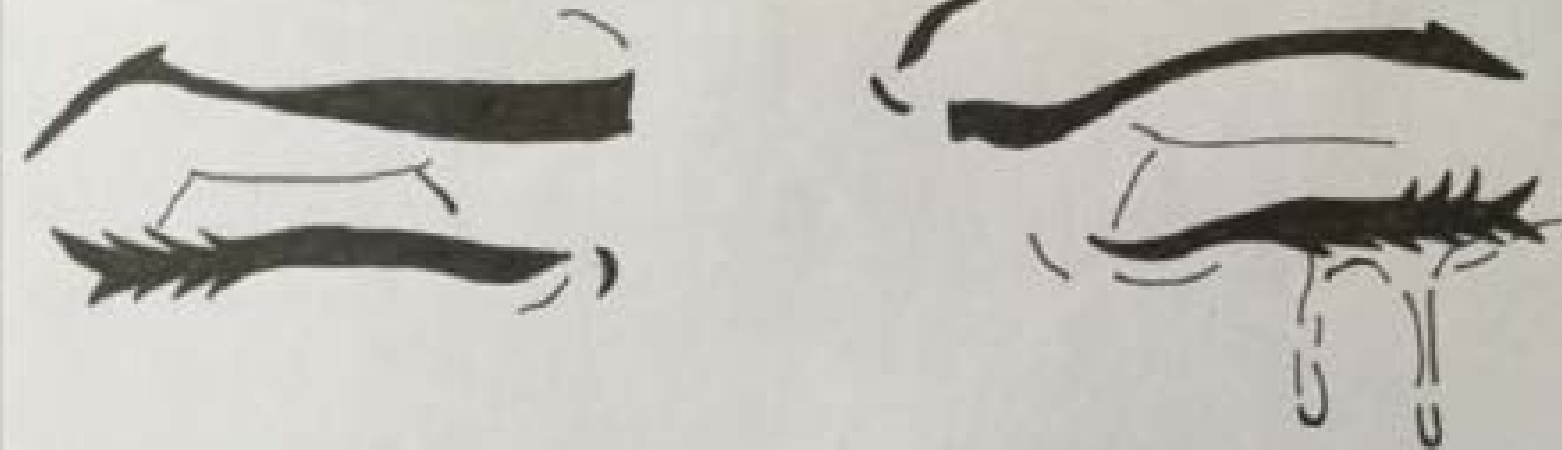

I AM A HUMAN

I HAVE FEELINGS

I HAVE A VOICE

//POEM: APPRECIATE THICK THIGHS

I don't wear jeans for longer than a year and if

I do its made of the stuff that remind my thighs that when Levi dreamt of jeans he had no clue what my African genes demanded to keep them covered Just like Africa my thighs they are thick and full of life.

Just like Africa too my thighs have been used to dehumanise me.

Again like Africa these thighs I have known from an early age that they don't belong to me...

He was old enough to be my dad.

Looked at me like a prize to claim

Dug into my dignity and came back with the diamonds of my once intact purity.

Again like Africa I had buried these pieces of me so deep.

But the Lonmins that walk around disguised as a saving grace.

They mine my dignity until the only thing that remains of me is a hollow shell they massacre.

My genes don't obey the rules of Levi's jeans even if they come in diesel.

These diesel engines have stolen not only from Africa drilling deep into her belly

These diesel engines they stole me walking to campus sent chills into my mother's womb as she watched pictures of what could have been me splayed across the TV - missing, because of these thighs.

I never understood what they meant that Africa was a woman until my thighs started to curve.

Then I witnessed first-hand how the body of her daughters relive her pain on the daily.

It was about a week ago that I swore never again to wear shorts again.

I love mama Africa but I refuse to be used like her.

He was old enough to be my dad.

He was old enough to be my dad.

He looked at me like a prize to claim.

They stood there watching.

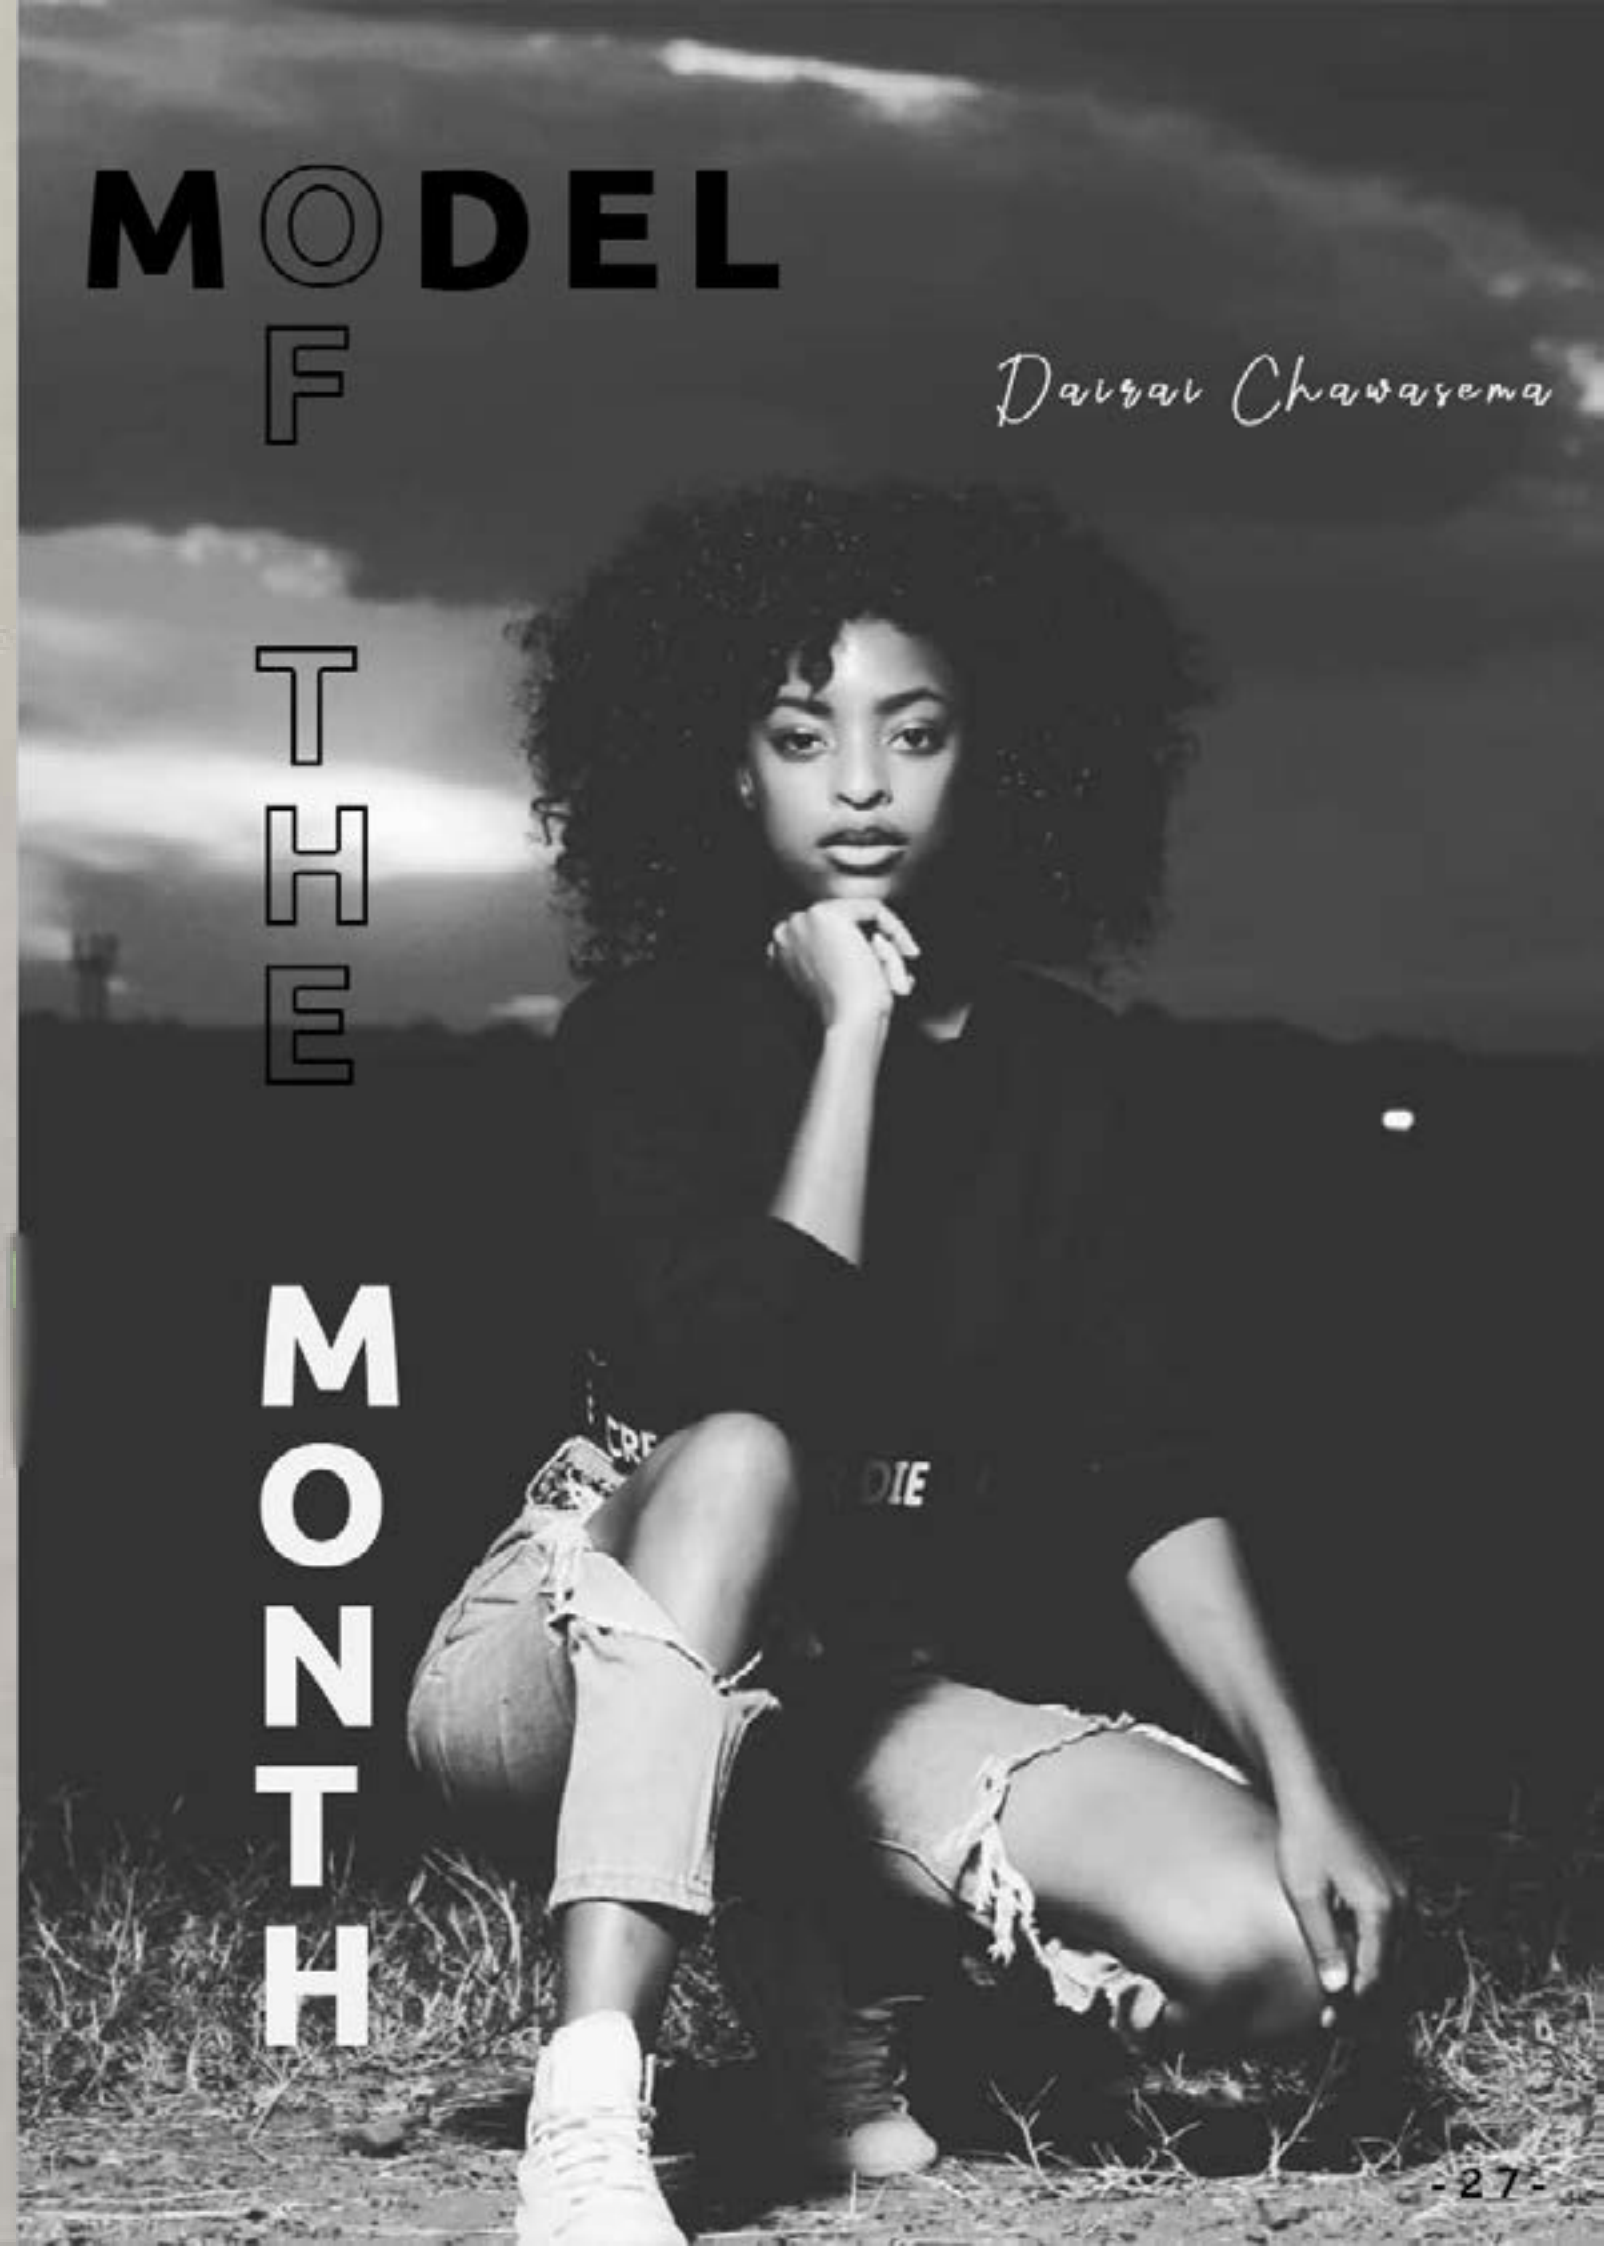

Now I know too that we could have saved you Africa but we stood watching.

MODEL F

Darai Chawasema

T H E

M O N T H

//LETS GET COOKING

//ABSOLUTE BEST LIVER AND ONIONS

RECIPE SUMMARY TEST

Prep: 20 mins
Cook: 25 mins
Total: 45 mins
Servings: 4
Yield: 4 servings

INGREDIENT CHECKLIST

2 pounds sliced beef liver
1 ½ cups milk, or as needed
¼ cup butter, divided
2 large Vidalia onions, sliced into rings
2 cups all-purpose flour, or as needed
salt and pepper to taste

METHOD

Step 1

Gently rinse liver slices under cold water, and place in a medium bowl. Pour in enough milk to cover. Let stand while preparing onions. (I like to soak up to an hour or two - whatever you have time for.) This step is SO Important in taking the bitter taste of the liver out.

Step 2

Melt 2 tablespoons of butter in a large skillet over medium heat. Separate onion rings, and saute them in butter until soft. Remove onions, and melt remaining butter in the skillet. Season the flour with salt and pepper, and put it in a shallow dish or on a plate. Drain milk from liver, and coat slices in the flour mixture.

Step 3

When the butter has melted, turn the heat up to medium-high, and place the coated liver slices in the pan. Cook until nice and brown on the bottom. Turn, and cook on the other side until browned. Add onions, and reduce heat to medium. Cook a bit longer to taste. Our family prefers the liver to just barely retain a pinkness on the inside when you cut to check. Enjoy!

//MODEL OF THE MONTH

name: Dairai Chawasema

Stage Name: Dairai

Age: 23

Hobby: Reading Novels And Watching TV

Location: Tynwald, Harare

Why modeling?

Modeling allows me to bring out the creativity i have.

How did u discover you are a model?

Actually it was my dad. He just said it in passing and I thought Oh well I should just go for it

Whose your inspiration?

Nature, with nature being imperfect its still beautiful. There are many things we face as we join the Industry from society but at the end they will love it if the fruit is nice. Then also just like a rose it has thorns but beautiful even the scent is amazing thus it inspires me that no matter how things go at the end of the storm there's a rainbow.

How did your family take it when they discovered you are a model?

They were the ones that supported me. Mostly my mom.

Where do you see yourself in ten years from now?

As a successful model, owning my own modeling agency

What is your message to other upcoming models out there?

Pursue your dreams don't let the outside voices of people bring you down... We all have different paths but the most important thing is we all know our goal In pursuing such a field. Don't let anyone define u be the change people want to see.

//BACK-COVER

Thank you for viewing our magazine
We hope that you enjoyed it.
Submit your articles, poems, and all that you see fit featuring in our magazine on our platforms

/CONTACT

Cel: +263 78 699 0590

Email: info@cloutbase.co.zw

Website: www.cloutbase.co.zw

Facebook: facebook.com/RemzyClout

Instagram: instagram.com/cloutbase_

Twitter twitter.com/cloutbase_